A total of 50 runners had run in the first 2 races of the 2012 Trilogy Series but only 22 of them showed up at Monroe to complete the series and get a final score, not to mention another neat hat that was eventually awarded to all finishers thanks to the WMAC.

The hats were a little late being ordered this year, due to a lack of volunteers, but thankfully Vic LaPort stepped in to take charge and talked Poncho Mach into opening up the WMAC treasury to pay for them along with mailing them out to all Trilogy finishers.

In the Long Course, after the first 2 races, Stanislav Trufanov was in the lead by less than 3 minutes over the next runner. However, the 2nd place runner didn't show up for the Monroe race while Stanislav had a great run to close out the series. And so Stanislav is the Trilogy Series Overall Champion for 2012.

Way to go Stanislav!

Less than 20 minutes behind was Kelsey Allen, our Female Trilogy Champion. Kelsey was more than an hour ahead of the next female runner after the first 2 races, but besides that, she was the first female finisher in all 3 of the Trilogy races this year.

Way to go Kelsey!

5 runners did a mix of the races and only 3 runners did all the short races. Kristi Cabot is the overall short course champion while Stan Serafin took the honors on the men's side.

Way to go Kristi & Stan!

Thanks to all the runners who took part in the WMAC's 2012 Trilogy Series.
